English — 2012–2013 CATALOG

The English Department's diverse selection of courses invites you to discover the writer within and to explore the great literary works of others. Courses cover everything from basic writing skills and creative writing to journalism, technical writing, and literature through the ages. Other features of the department include English as a Second Language courses; the MacGuffin, a literary journal; and the Writing Fellows—honor students trained to help others organize, evaluate, and edit their compositions.

WHY CHOOSE AN ENGLISH COURSE?

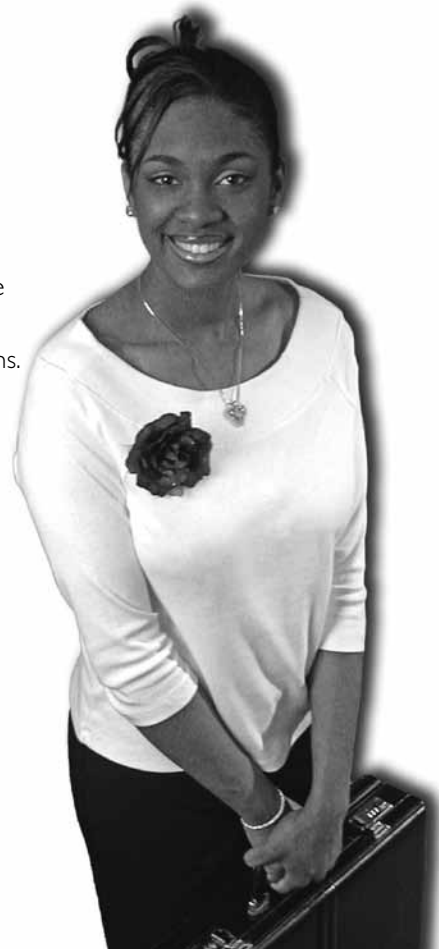

Because...

- You want to get your point across in memos, reports, web pages, and e-mails.
- You want to market yourself with the perfect resumé and cover letter.
- You want to push your intellectual and artistic boundaries through creative writing.
- You want access to the great literary minds of the ages.
- You are a non-native speaker who wishes to write in English more confidently.
- You want to earn credits that will transfer toward a four-year degree.

English courses are identified by the prefix ENG.
