The Mission

Schoolcraft is a comprehensive, open-door, community-based college. The mission of the College is to provide a transformational learning experience designed to increase the capacity of individuals and groups to achieve intellectual, social, and economic goals.

The Vision

The College wishes to be a first choice provider of educational services, a competent organization, functioning with integrity, behaving strategically, and providing value beyond expectations.

be · lieve (bĭ-lēv') v. 1. To have faith, confidence, or trust. 2. To have confidence in the truth or value of something.

BELIEVE in Schoolcraft.

During the past year, I am proud to report that there are hundreds of examples of students, faculty, staff, alumni, community members and donors that bring this Annual Report theme to life.

Within these pages, you will read about the accomplishments of faculty members for their outstanding contributions to the college and students. You will see academic excellence on display and learn how a recent graduate received a prestigious award by changing the lives of infants. And you will see how donors completely transformed the life of a student who could never have afforded a college education without their generosity.

You will learn about a special Business Development Center that helped area businesses attract more than $223 million in government contracts last year, and how partnering with government agencies has helped provide grants for students to learn valuable manufacturing skills that lead to good-paying jobs.

Finally, you will gain a better understanding of Schoolcraft's impact on the community through special programs for K–12 students that help expand their dreams or how Schoolcraft's Radcliff Center in Garden City became the site of an accelerated learning center for K–12 students and the home of a Wayne County Early Head Start program for children ages six weeks to three years old.

In this report, you will also see the pride we have at being a great educational value for students and an economic and entertainment hub for the community. And I'm happy to say that dedication to our mission was rewarded recently as the community showed they "Believe in Schoolcraft" by voting to approve our November 6 Millage Restoration. Passage of this proposal is not a windfall; it provides stability going forward to create and sustain that which is valuable to our students and our community.

I want to personally thank everyone who voted "Yes" for our proposal, and assure you that we will continue to be good stewards of the dollars we receive.

Culinary Arts Team Earns Honors at International Competition

This spring, a Culinary Arts competition team of five students and one alum won a total of six medals at the Thaifex–World of Food Asia event in Bangkok, Thailand.

Earning gold medals were students Paul DiNicola, Zachary Wolffis, Zachary Chouinard, and alum Panjama Praphapantasak. Zachary Bergquist earned silver and Jeffrey Skvarce brought home bronze.

Escorting the team were three Master Chefs from the Culinary Arts program: Jeff Gabriel, CMC; Joseph Decker, CMPC; and Kevin Gawronski, CMC.

Thaifex–World of Food Asia is an international trade exhibition. This year's competition was hosted by the World Association of Chef Societies and featured 1,300 competitors. The team from Schoolcraft had the highest scores of the entire competition in the Hot Food Cooking category.

"This is an incredible feat," said Master Chef Shawn Loving, chair of Schoolcraft's Culinary Arts program. "These awards and experiences for our culinary students are just another example of the standards of excellence we strive for at Schoolcraft College."

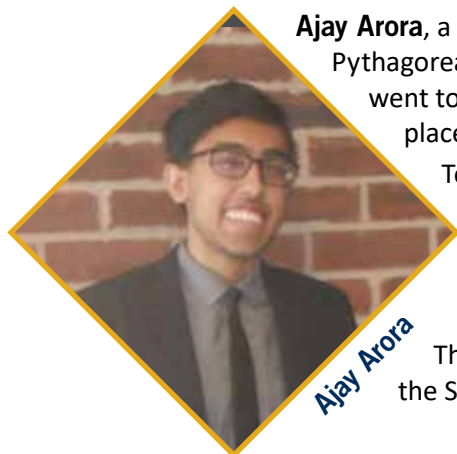

The students also experienced a Thai cooking class, given in exchange for Schoolcraft's Master Chefs addressing the Suan Dusit International Culinary School, where Schoolcraft College alum, Panjama Praphapantasak, is now an instructor.

Dual-enrollment Student Wins Schoolcraft College's Pythagorean Prize for Mathematics Excellence

Ajay Arora, a Novi High School dual-enrolled student, was named the winner of the college's 2018 Pythagorean Prize. As the first-place winner, Arora received a $3,000 prize award. Second place went to Kangni Liu of Commerce Township, who received a $1,500 award, and the third-place winner, Harshang Patel of Canton, received a $1,000 award.

To qualify, a student must be enrolled at Schoolcraft College during the Fall or Winter semester and have completed at least three mathematics courses at the college, with at least one course being at the Math 200 level or above. The student must also have earned a 3.25 or higher grade point average (GPA) and a 3.50 GPA in mathematics courses.

The awards are funded through the generosity of donors, including the Kehrl Fund at the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Schoolcraft Faculty Accomplishments and Recognition

Chef Shawn Loving, Department Chair of Schoolcraft College's Culinary Arts program, earned the Certified Master Chef (CMC) Designation from American Culinary Federation. Chef Loving is one of only 68 CMCs in the country. The title of CMC is the highest level of certification in the U.S. that a chef can receive.

Elizabeth Grace, professor, Early Childhood Education and Special Education, and Bradley Stetson, associate professor, Mathematics, received the 2018 John and Suanne Roueche Excellence Award. The national award is sponsored by the League for Innovation in the Community College to celebrate outstanding contributions and leadership by community college faculty and staff.

Annette May, adjunct instructor, Brewing and Distillation Technology (BDT), was recently selected as an American Association of University Women (AAUW) 2018 Honoree. The AAUW Wyandotte-Downriver Chapter "recognizes women and men whose efforts have strengthened and/or made a difference in the lives of others in a significant way." May is the first female Certified Cicerone® and Michigan's first and only Advanced Cicerone®, in a field of seven women nationwide. Along with teaching the students in the BDT program, Annette offers her vast knowledge of beer to the community through CEPD classes.

Welding Professor Reaches High School Students and Returning Citizens

Professor Coley McLean has developed an excellent reputation as an expert in the field of welding and occupational safety education. McLean has completed several welding and safety boot camps for unemployed/underemployed individuals and returning citizens, and has taught summer welding camps for high school students over the last two summers. She recently held a boot camp for a Mexican-owned company, where the employees were training to become AWS certified welders. When some of the students failed the initial tests, McLean provided extra opportunities, on her own time and with no additional pay, for the students to be successful. In addition, McLean's ability to speak Spanish helped her tremendously in this class with primarily English-as-a-second-language students.

Allyson Wonfor Recipient of Campus Compact's 2018 Newman Civic Fellowship

Former Schoolcraft Nursing student Allyson Wonfor was named a 2018 Newman Civic Fellow by Campus Compact, a Boston-based non-profit organization working to advance the public purposes of higher education. Wonfor is one of 268 students nationally who have been selected for this honor.

The Newman Civic Fellowship is intended to honor community-committed students. Wonfor, who was nominated for the honor by Schoolcraft College President Conway Jeffress, established a non-profit organization, Heart Hugs, to support premature and ill infants by crocheting small hats for them.

"Allyson's compassion and intellectual curiosity have led her along an amazing path of civic engagement that is changing the lives of those she serves," Jeffress said. "Her nursing studies piqued her interest in neonatal abstinence syndrome, which led her to co-founding Heart Hugs. She is a very deserving winner of the Newman Civic Fellowship honor."

The Newman Civic Fellowship is a one-year experience for community-committed students from Campus Compact member institutions that support students' personal, professional and civic development. Through the fellowship, Campus Compact provides a variety of learning and networking opportunities and also provides fellows with access to apply for exclusive scholarship and post-graduate opportunities.

Allyson graduated with a degree in Science/Nursing in May 2018. She is continuing her education at the University of Toledo and was the recipient of the first Alan and Nancy Tope Transfer Scholarship from the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Mountain Movers seek to help struggling students

The following are excerpts from an article by Christopher Falkiewicz, Staff Writer, Schoolcraft Connection.

Therapy, for many, can be hectic and drawn out. There are times when someone just needs a place to release what they have built up inside. The answer may be Mountain Movers, an on campus club founded by student and club President, Joshua Walker.

The club was formed from a promise he made to his late father to fight his own depression. The club holds meetings every Tuesday from 2 to 3 p.m. in the Lower Waterman, VisTaTech Center.

With the help from Vice President Bobby Schutter, the club's main focus is on helping people with problems they may have such as dealing with depression and anxiety. Walker believes that anyone has the ability to do anything that they put their mind to and holds that as his most important belief in the club, such as ambition, consistency and motivation as a few core values. Mountain Movers plans to have outreach events on campus in the near future such as bringing in guest speakers to talk on different topics like mental health, suicide and depression. For more information on Mountain Movers, call the Student Activities Office at 734-462-4422.

Student Scholarship Spotlight: Candace Reed

Every day we hear stories from our students that inspire us and confirm the important role our donors play in completely transforming students' lives. One such story is that of Candace Reed, who wrote a very compelling thank you note to her donors. With her permission, we have reprinted parts of her heartwarming letter.

Dear Schoolcraft College Foundation Donors,

I don't have a lot. In fact, I have very little. My mother left our lives when I was eleven years old, and my father passed away nine years ago. The moral support of one older sister, a younger brother, and three close friends is all I have to call my own. In most cases, I have to do everything on my own and I always have. Because of this situation, I live a simple life; I work and take care of my son. My Lucas is my life outside of work, he is bright, healthy and shining, he is my son and my sun.

I work as part of a strong team of Paramedics to provide care for my community. Recently, I decided it was time to set an example for my son by investing in my own education and future. I set off on a journey with nothing but my ambition and wit to accomplish my goal.

I work hard and we get by fine, but the cost of college tuition is nowhere near what I am able to accommodate within my budget. However, I tried not to let that stop me and with my eye on the prize, I've taken a deep breath and gone into deeper debt each semester in the form of student loans. I tell myself to keep the faith that it will eventually all even out and we will be ok when I become a successful registered nurse and will have no problem repaying these loans...I just have to get there. Everything works out, always. That's what I kept telling myself, until this semester...

With my son in tow, I went once again to the Financial Aid Office to sign my future income away with the promise that I would be worth the expense of all this tuition once I completed my degree. I had no idea that a little over a month later someone would stand up and say "Don't worry about it Candace, we think you're worthy right now!" I would be protecting my pride if I didn't admit that tears swelled my eyes when I was informed that I was chosen to receive a scholarship from the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

No one ever helps me, not like this. The idea that someone sees me worthy and a sound investment has given me wings. I am flying and my heart is on fire for my future. I can't wait to wow my professors. I can't wait to give everything to patients; I can't wait to hear Lucas tell me he is proud of me. In ten years when it's his turn to go to college, he will look back and remember that his Mom stepped up and gave him a better life and that's because of you.

Because of you I was able to register completely today without worry. My friends are ecstatic, screaming and jumping up and down with joy for me and grateful that someone finally saw the possibility in me. You are not just handing money to a student. You are improving the life of a mother, sister, and medic. You are giving me a new life. You are funding the nurse that will give everything she has every day hoping the universe will return your incredible generosity back to you.

The gratitude that I feel for your support is overwhelming. I can say 'thank you' in four languages—Gracias, Merci, Danke...it's not enough, thank you will never be enough. In Hinduism it is a common practice to connect with others by pressing palms together at the chest with a slight bow, and speaking one word that means, "the light within me bows to the light within you." Namaste. I can't wait to show you what I can do!

Sincerely,
Candace Reed

Schoolcraft College receives $180,000 grant from Michigan Talent Investment Agency for professional trades apprenticeship programs with area companies

An $180,000 grant from Michigan's Talent Investment Agency enabled Schoolcraft College to launch a professional trades apprenticeship program. The program provides funding for current eligible students to take courses designed to provide the foundation in professional trades and lead to apprenticeships with local area companies. The courses also apply to programs leading to the college's academic certifications in a variety of engineering and technology related disciplines.

The $180,000 Going PRO Apprenticeship Readiness Initiative grant was used to offset the tuition costs for qualified students who take the specific advanced manufacturing-related courses.

"Students interested in becoming part of this program must agree to complete the required courses and become part of an apprenticeship program at a local company" said Amy Jones, associate dean of Occupational Programs & Engineering Technology at Schoolcraft College. "We already have a number of local manufacturing companies who will provide these students with apprenticeship opportunities once they complete the courses."

Jones said the required courses focus on professional trade topics, including technical mathematics, occupational safety and health, and electives in engineering graphics, electronics, material science, machining processes, plastic materials and welding.

"The goal is to provide students in this program with the needed education and training to help fill the manufacturing industry technology skills gap," Jones added. "And thanks to the support of our local manufacturing companies, it can offer a clear pathway to meaningful employment."

CNC Operator Training Program places nearly 100% of Participants in Jobs

A unique program that provides unemployed and underemployed workers with Computer Numerical Control (CNC) skills and guaranteed job interviews is proving very successful at Schoolcraft College.

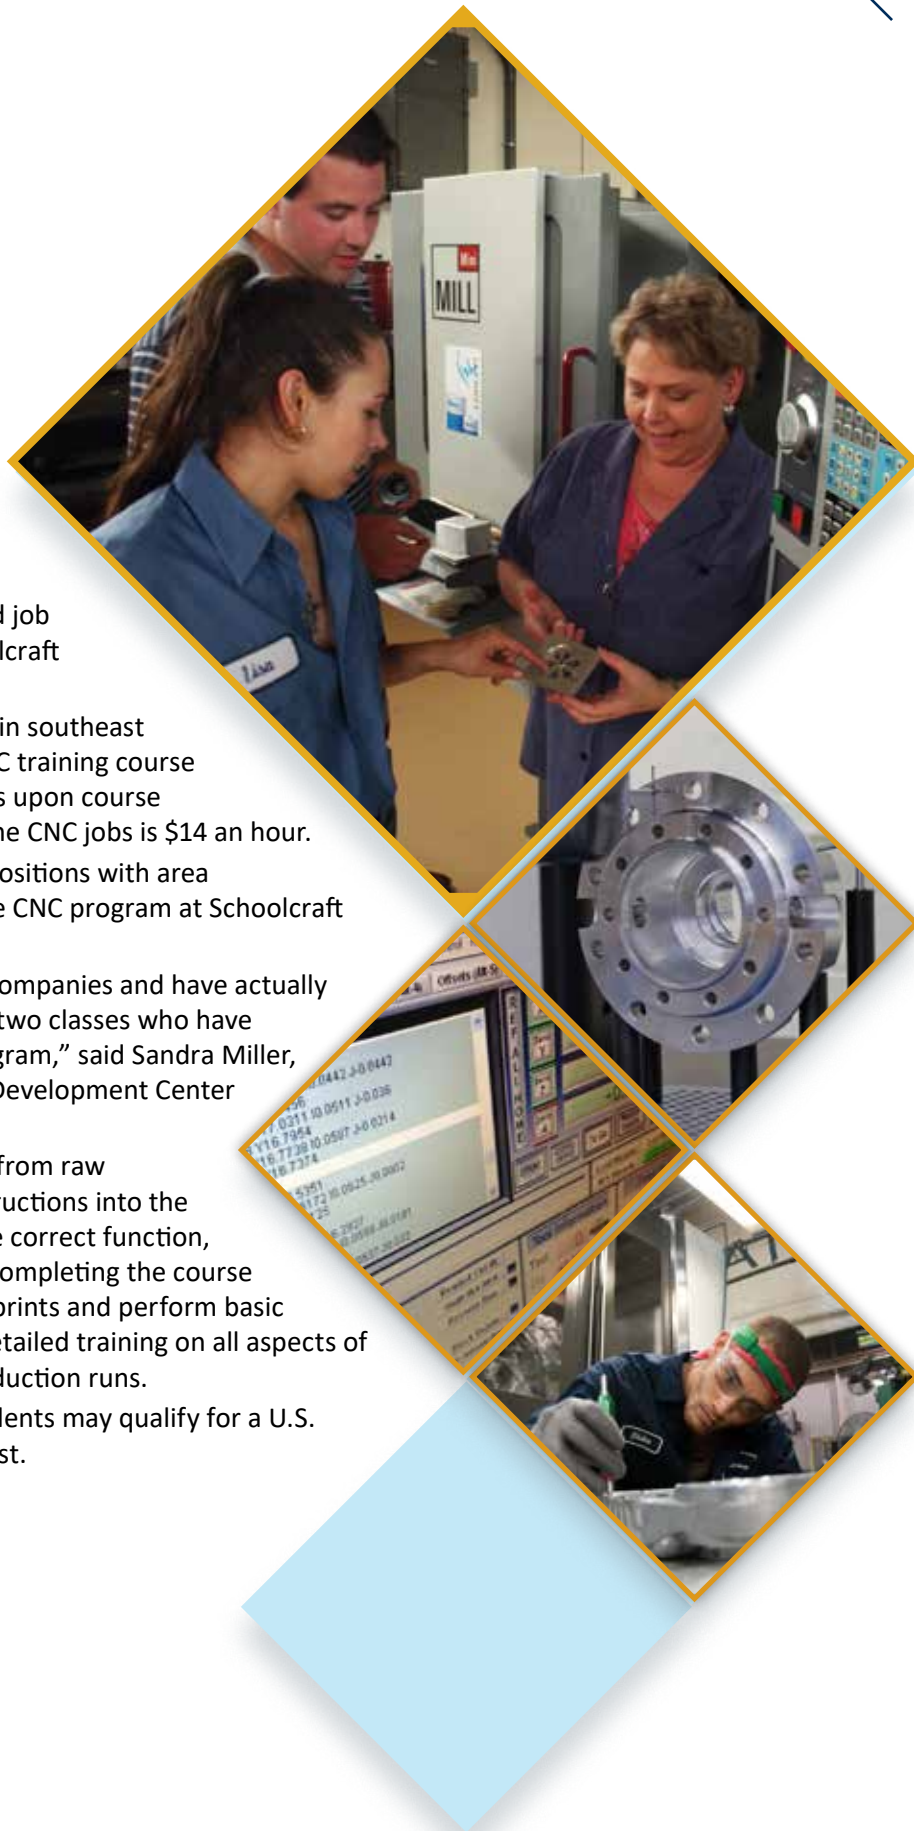

In an effort to fill the need for CNC operators in southeast Michigan, Schoolcraft College is offering a CNC training course where students are guaranteed job interviews upon course completion. The starting pay for many full-time CNC jobs is $14 an hour.

In addition to guaranteed job interviews for positions with area manufacturing companies, the students in the CNC program at Schoolcraft College have a high rate of job placement.

"We are partnering with area manufacturing companies and have actually placed 85 percent of the students in our first two classes who have completed the classes in the seven-week program," said Sandra Miller, project coordinator in the college's Business Development Center who oversees the CNC program.

CNC operators run a machine to create parts from raw materials like metal. The operator inputs instructions into the CNC machine so the machine can perform the correct function, such as drilling, milling or grinding. Students completing the course will understand shop math, how to read blueprints and perform basic machine tool operations. They will also get detailed training on all aspects of setting up and running CNC machines for production runs.

The seven-week course costs $3,300, but students may qualify for a U.S. Department of Labor grant that covers the cost.

t.Lab Opens at Radcliff Campus

Schoolcraft's Radcliff Center partnered with Dr. Nixon, founder and President of t.Lab, to bring this accelerated learning center for students in grades K–12 to the Garden City area.

t.Lab focuses on preparing students, underachieving in reading, math, science and English, who will not be prepared to compete in today's job market. The goal of the program is for students to become independent learners while successfully completing a minimum of three academic courses in English, math, science, language and writing each year. t.Lab's Parent University equips parents with tools to enable and realize academic achievement from students.

Schoolcraft and Wayne County Dedicate New Early Head Start Facility

Schoolcraft College's Radcliff Center is the sight for a new Wayne County Head Start program for children from six weeks to three-years old. The program utilizes two classrooms, an infant and toddler room and a parent resource room. In partnership with the Early Head Start program, Schoolcraft College's Early Childhood Education and Special Education departments will reap additional benefits of the EHS by being able to provide field experience for students.

Kids on Campus Attracts 3,000 Students

Each summer, Schoolcraft's Livonia campus welcomes more than 3,000 grade school, middle school, and high school students who have the opportunity to experience classes from Greek Mythology to Rocket Science. The popular Kids on Campus programs were sold-out, as kids enjoyed a cool way to spend summer break and continue learning! Due to the generosity of BOSCH and the Schoolcraft Foundation, several students were able to attend on scholarship.

Procurement Technical Assistance Center Helps Local Business Acquire $223 Million in Government Contracts

The Business Development Center (BDC) has a long history of helping area companies grow their businesses. One of the most important services it provides is in the area of government contracting. Through its Procurement Technical Assistance Center (PTAC), businesses can receive counseling and advice from an expert staff to help locate government contract bidding opportunities and explore what it takes to sell their company's products and services to the government.

In 2017, PTAC helped area businesses secure more than $223 million in local, state and federal government contracts. It also served 361 new clients and offered more than 1200 individual business-counseling sessions and 51 training seminars on government contracting. As a regional center, the Schoolcraft College PTAC services companies in Oakland, Wayne, Monroe, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

and hands-on demonstrations of professional trades. Students from Livonia, Clarenceville, Wayne-Westland and Garden City explored manufacturing facilities and toured Schoolcraft's Manufacturing Technology labs. Numerous faculty members led hands-on demonstrations in 3D Printing, Machining, Metallurgy, Plastics, Welding and the newly established Mechatronics Lab. Special thanks to Alpha USA, Burke Architectural Millwork, CW Bearing and Valassis-Anderson Print Division for opening their companies to our future workforce.

The day was also generously sponsored by the Michigan Manufacturing Technology Center, Alpha USA, the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Lincoln Park Boring, Fausone Bohn, Gene Keyes, ZF, Three M Tool and Machine, Star Cutter and ECCO Tool.

Young Inventors Competition Showcases Future Entrepreneurs

The annual Young Inventors contest is a special opportunity designed to inspire middle school students by challenging them to create a unique concept, product, service or technology and then submit their ideas for competition among hundreds of area students.

Spearheading the program was the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Alpha USA and Schoolcraft College in partnership with Livonia, Clarenceville and Wayne-Westland school districts. Student inventions were judged by a panel of experts and the finalists were selected to present their ideas at the Young Inventors banquet. The winning finalists from each school were provided with scholarships for Schoolcraft College's Kids on Campus programs. A total of $2,000 in scholarships were provided by the Schoolcraft College Foundation's Rockall Fund.

Congratulations to the following winners:

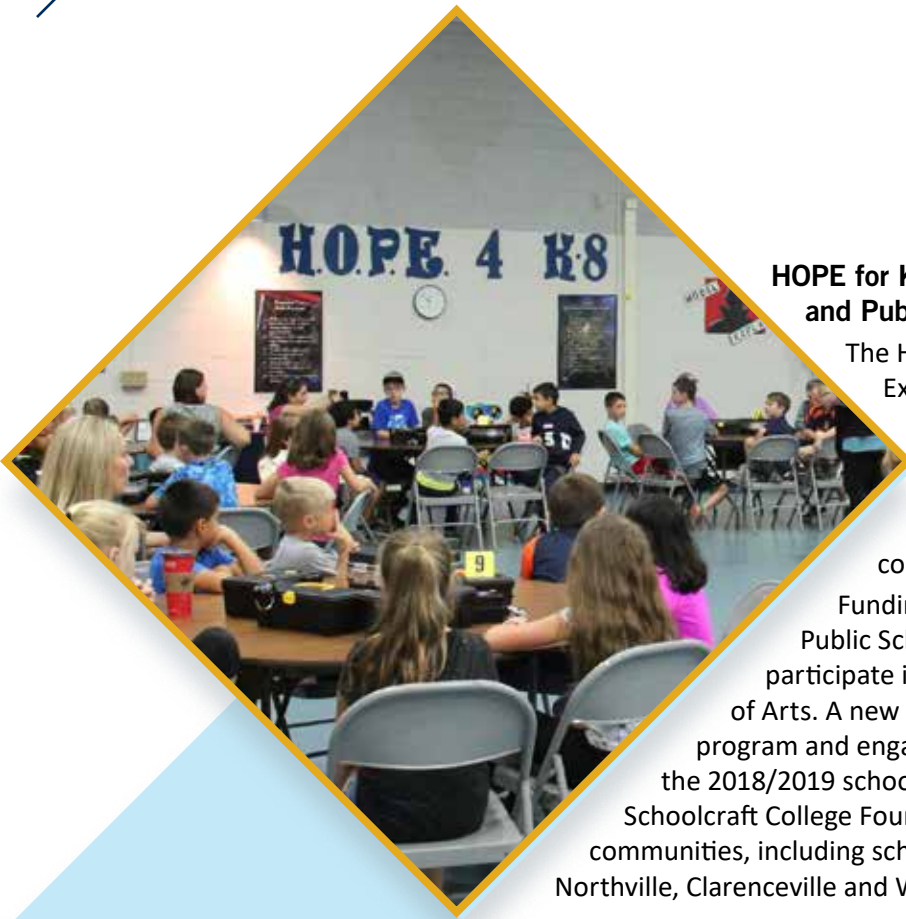

First Place	Mastercrafter by Ethan Kovie of Livonia Holmes
Second Place	Salteasy by Madeline Johnson of Livonia Emerson
Third Place	Fingerprint Carseat by Madison Morgan of Clarenceville

Girls in STEM

In March, Schoolcraft College hosted the 3rd Annual Girls in STEM event sponsored by the American Association of University Women (AAUW). The event attracted over 100 fifth through eighth grade girls from Livonia and Garden City schools. Dr. Tonya Matthews, president and CEO of the Michigan Science Center, was the keynote speaker and many of our faculty members gave demonstrations for plastics, welding, metallurgy, computer-aided-design, engineering and mechatronics.

HOPE for K–8 Festivals a Private and Public Partnership

The HOPE (Hosting On-going Professional Experiences) uses STEAM investigations (called Festivals) to excite students about careers in science, technology, engineering, arts and math. The program is possible through funding from participating school districts, coupled with private philanthropic support.

Funding from Ford Motor Company allowed Detroit Public Schools Community District (DPSCD) students to participate in the HOPE K–8 Festival at the Detroit Institute of Arts. A new $20,000 grant from Ford will help expand this program and engage other DPSCD schools in the Festivals for the 2018/2019 school year. Additional funding from BOSCH and the Schoolcraft College Foundation helped expand this program into area communities, including schools in Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City, Northville, Clarenceville and Wayne-Westland.

Mind Trekkers

In October, Schoolcraft College hosted the Southeast Michigan Science and Engineering Festival, also known as Mind Trekkers. In conjunction with Michigan Technological University, students, staff and volunteers (70 from Schoolcraft) hosted over 100 STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) demonstrations to over 1,800 fifth through eighth grade students from Livonia, Garden City, Clarenceville, Plymouth-Canton, Northville, West Bloomfield and several private schools. The following day over 2,500 community members attended. Schoolcraft opened many of our labs to show students and parents Nursing Simulation, Scanning Electron Microscope, Metallurgy, Plastics, Mechatronics, Welding, Advanced Manufacturing and CAD opportunities.

Culinary Extravaganza Raises $106,000

On September 16, nearly 800 friends of Schoolcraft College gathered to support the college's premiere fundraising event, Culinary Extravaganza, which raised over $106,000 to benefit the Culinary Arts Program and student success. Because of the generosity of restaurants, vendors and donors, net proceeds of $92,000 will directly support the culinary program, student scholarships and the newly established Student Emergency Needs Fund.

Led by Committee Chair Chef Marc Djodzija of Detroit's Wright and Co., the Extravaganza brought together students, culinary professionals and the southeastern Michigan community for an afternoon showcasing the finest culinary delicacies from Metro Detroit's fabulous restaurants, caterers and food vendors. Guests sampled food from partnering restaurants and the Schoolcraft Culinary Program. Schoolcraft's award-winning Brewing & Distillation Program offered samples of their brew. A warm "THANK YOU" to the restaurants who served delicious food, to the generous sponsors who made the event a huge success, and all the participants who shared a fun afternoon with us.

2018 Golf Classic Raises nearly $37,000

BELIEVE in Legacy.

Three Board of Trustee Members Recognized for Philanthropic Legacy

Schoolcraft College is governed by an elected Board of Trustees, all of whom give of their time tirelessly as the college's governing body. The trustees also are known for their philanthropic giving, having achieved 100% of the board giving back to the college. In November 2018, we were honored to induct three trustees into the Bell Tower Society.

The Society was created to acknowledge the extraordinary philanthropy of those individuals and organizations who are our most generous benefactors. It celebrates the distinguished history of giving by recognizing cumulative giving at six different giving circles.

Inducted into the Bell Tower Society Friends Circle were Trustee Carol Strom and her husband Cal Strom. The Stroms have a long history of commitment to Schoolcraft College and its students. Carol has served on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees for the past 23 years. Together, they share a deep passion for higher education, life-long learning, physical education and for helping students. In 2018, they established the Carol M. Strom Athletic Scholarship Award to provide financial support for Schoolcraft College student athletes.

Bell Tower Society Associate Circle inductees included the Board of Trustees Secretary Gretchen Alaniz and Trustee Joan Gebhardt; both have been longstanding supporters of the college.

Gretchen Alaniz has been a committed participant on the Board of Trustees for five years; in that time she has made a difference in many students' and community members' lives. She is active with the Livonia Industrial Council promoting STEM career programs and she is on the board of Seedlings Braille Books for Children, a Livonia-based non-profit group. Her work and her concern for Schoolcraft students are evident in her generosity of time, talent and resources.

For the past 11 years, Joan Gebhardt has been an involved Schoolcraft Board of Trustees officer and member. With a long history of working for students in education, she was an administrator in the K-12 arena for many years and was an adjunct professor in education. She was elected and served for two terms as a Wayne County Commissioner. A tireless leader who gives of herself, she strives to enrich our students and our community through education.

BELIEVE in Retirees.

Retirees Return to School in 2018

The Second Annual Retiree Breakfast proved to be another huge success. This year's breakfast brought 95 retirees back to campus. In addition to those who live locally, we were thrilled to be joined by Larry and Jeanne Williams visiting from South Carolina, Chef Leonard Stec visiting from Florida and Pat Niergarth visiting from Holland, Michigan.

Following a great breakfast, Dr. Conway Jeffress shared a fantastic video showcasing all the exciting growth at the college. In addition, the group heard from the Assistant Director of Athletics, Cali Crawford and Baseball Coach Rob Fay about the campus' new Sports Dome and other exciting news about SC athletics. Next, nursing professor Marie Siegel shared a presentation about the college's Sim Lab, a state of the art training lab for nursing students. Coordinator Melissa Gury gave an overview of the Biomedical Technology Center, one of the campus's most impressive buildings. The program wrapped up with thoughts about the benefits of the SC retiree program from new retiree committee members, Deb Dani and Pat Mog.

Following the presentations, guided tours of the Sports Dome, Sim Lab and BTC were arranged and visitors received great parting gifts from the Athletic Department.

Henry Rowe Schoolcraft Society

The Henry Rowe Schoolcraft Society was established to honor donors who so strongly believe in the college and our mission that they are dedicated to strengthening and protecting it today, tomorrow, and into the future. They have expressed this commitment by including a gift to the college in their estate planning. Membership in this society stands as a lasting tribute to their generosity and is among the highest honor the Foundation bestows on a donor.
